Once there was a white dove. She used to fly about searching for food for her babies. One day she came about to the banks of a stream to rest. At that moment a little ant fell from a shrub into the water while he was trying to drink water.

The stream was by no means deep, but to the tiny ant it was like a huge ocean! As the ant struggled to save himself from drowning, the dove noticed him. She quickly plucked a leaf and dropped it in the water. The ant managed to climb onto the leaf anyhow and floated safely to the riverbank.

The ant thanked the dove for saving his life and the two became good friends.
