1) Read the following story and do the activities that follow:

The Three Friends

A crab lives near a river. A frog and a snake also live there. They are friends. They talk together, sing together and play together. They seek shelter together. They never fight with each other. They always help each other. They are really good friends.

One day, the crab sees some black clouds in the sky. Those black clouds look ominous. He thinks it is going to rain. If it rains, there will be floods. They must go up the hill. They will be safe there. They are not safe near the river.

The crab goes to the frog and says, "It's going to rain. Let's go up the hill."

The frog says, "I won't go, I have ten ideas to save myself."

The crab goes to the snake and says, "It's going to rain. Let's go up the hill."

The snake says, "I won't go. I have hundred ideas to save myself."

The crab says, "I have just one idea. I must go up the hill.

It rains heavily in the night. The crab is harmless up in the hill. Next morning, he comes down the hill. He sees the frog and the snake. The frog is lying on its back. The ake is lying on its back too. Both are dead.

The crab is sad. His friends are dead. Now he's all alone.
